

I currently run my own business where the radio is on everyday, all day. My local stations have become so overrun with annoying commercials that my sanity forced me to explore other options. I purchased an XM satellite radio receiver and really enjoy it. The only thing missing was the local information. Now that is also available, making a good product even better. I believe XM will do for radio what cable and satellite have done for TV. I believe they have a great product which is why I recently acquired 77 shares of their stock. Please let them prosper in our free economic market.
